Students can:

- Demonstrate foundational knowledge in the functional areas of business.
- Evaluate the legal, social, and economic environments of business domestically and globally.
- Assess information and situations to make rational ethical business decisions.
- Demonstrate effective oral and written communication skills.
- Leverage decision-support tools and research to integrate business knowledge in applied settings.
- Demonstrate knowledge of business, especially in the areas of economics, ethics, and communication.
- Explain and use the theological tools of exegesis, systematics, and practical theology.
- Integrate theological knowledge and skills with the theory and practice of business.

Occupational Information

What can I do with this major?

Following graduation, students with this major often begin their career in one of the following:

- 1) Internships in church organizations, businesses, and pastoral ministry.
- 2) Graduate schools of business, denstry, law, medicine, or theology.
- 3) Self-employment.

Employment opportunities are available in a wide range of fields. Completing subsequent masters and doctoral degrees will increase opportunities and income levels.

Additional Education Required?

Many organizations require a bachelor's degree for potential employees. This bachelor's degree affords employment in both church and business organizations. Students seeking management roles may need to complete a master's degree and many organizations favor candidates with a doctorate.

Job Outlook

Church organizations increasingly look for candidates with both theological and business capacities while businesses pursue candidates with broader fields of study. By completing this degree, the student is qualified for entrance into either field, potentially doubling the prospects of employment.

General Education Requirements

To view general education requirements for this major, please refer to page A-01, Summary of General Education Requirements: B.S. Degree.

The B.S. degree in Business Administration does not require a specialization within business and is often chosen by students pursuing professional graduate degree programs.

How to Construct Your Own Program

1. Consult with your academic advisor.
2. Consider your aptitudes, interests, and available courses.
3. Schedule major courses and cognates first.
